Prices on Gasoline
Should Be Controlled
by State

At the present time the price of gasoline ranges all the way from 11c to 19c a gallon. The highest price is invariably asked by the larger companies. It is difficult for the automobile owner to understand how some concerns can afford to sell for a price fifty per cent lower than others. We have heard that some dealers explain the reason by the claim that the cheaper gas is of poorer quality.

INVESTIGATION has proved this claim to be untrue. In a recent test of gasoline from 40 stations it was found that only one station was selling gasoline which was below requirements. This means that some stations have been making a misrepresentation to their patrons in order to be able to charge an unreasonable price for their products. The price of a product which is so generally used as gasoline should be under state control.

Why should the people of California, the state which produces more oil than any state in the union, be compelled to pay an exorbitant price for gasoline? The big companies that operate their own stations, thereby doing away with the middleman's profit, could sell at a lower price and still make as much profit as other stations and there can be no legitimate reason for selling at a higher price. Every business is entitled to a fair margin of profit and if in order to make this profit a certain price must be maintained we have no complaint to make, but if the price asked is only an arbitrary one put on the product by agreement of several companies it is nothing but a hold up and should not be permitted.

THE same condition as exists here now was experienced a few years ago in a middle western city. The authorities met the situation by revoking the station permit of the companies charging the unreasonable prices. The problem was answered overnight and the same situation has not occurred since.

Let's find out where the trouble lays!

Mrs. Buckman Brings
Menace to Children
Before C. of C.

A letter from Mrs. Buckman, secretary of the Foothill Improvement association, was read at the meeting of the C. of C. directors last night. In which she called attention to the fact that many of the children attending the Grand View school come from points south of the P. E. line, which they have to cross to reach the school, that the regular crossings are four blocks apart and rather than go around the children cross where streets have not been opened, in great danger of their lives because of the high rate of speed at which the cars run. She asks that the chamber take steps to have crossings opened at Rubenita, Justin and Winchester. On motion of Mr. Wilson, the board voted to endorse the letter, to send a copy to the city engineer and advise him of the endorsement of the chamber.

SHOE PLANT COMING

Corporation Asks Assistance in Financing
Here

The greater part of the session held by the directors of the chamber of commerce Tuesday evening was devoted to the consideration of propositions presented by A. L. Baird of the industrial committee from manufacturing concerns which wish to locate in Glendale.

Representatives of the Rogers Una Drive Motor company, Messrs. J. M. Jackson, William Hawthorn and H. C. Powell, its assistant general manager, now located at Sunnyside, Cal., were present to explain that they did not wish to take any advantage of the letter they had received from the chamber inviting them to locate their plant here or seem to construe it into an endorsement of their project. They therefore offered to return the letter if the chamber wished to withdraw it as it will be necessary to increase their capital stock if they transfer and enlarge the plant and it will be offered for sale in Glendale and Los Angeles. Mr. Jackson set forth the financial standing of the company, its physical assets, its capitalization, its patent rights, etc. George Bentley stated that the letter given the Rogers company was an invitation to come to Glendale, not an endorsement of its stock, and he saw no reason why the letter should not stand as written. The board by vote endorsed a motion to that effect made by Lloyd Wilson.

Mr. Baird read a communication from a boot and shoe factory in Texas which wishes to locate in Glendale and which claims to be a going concern. The writer asked the chamber to see if it could induce some capitalist to put up a building 100 by 150 in which the company could transfer its factory, and Lloyd Wilson assured Mr. Baird he believed he could arrange for it to be done.

Concerning a third corporation which asked for assistance in selling $150,000 of stock to finance its business, Mr. Baird was instructed to answer that the chamber has no funds available for any such purpose and it is not its policy to endorse stock propositions.

Applications for membership from Roscoe H. Goodell, realtor, and George H. Farmer, cashier of the State Bank, were accepted.

EARL HAYWOOD IS PLACED IN HOME
HE WANTED

The people of Glendale "have a heart" when it comes to bringing happiness to those in distress or in need.

A story appeared in Tuesday's edition of the Glendale Press telling the needs of Earl Haywood, a 15-year-old lad of Phoenix, Arizona, who was compelled to leave home through an unfortunate situation, and was picked up in Glendale Sunday morning.

Shortly after Tuesday's Daily Press was distributed two requests were entered at the police department for custody of the boy. One was from Ed Nisile of 135 1/2 South Brand boulevard, the other coming from Mrs. E. W. Curl, 706 North Jackson street. Both of these Glendale folks said they could give Earl a good home and a chance to go to school.

However, before these requests were received Earl had been given over to Mr. Miller, secretary of the Church Federation Society of Los Angeles, who said he had a number of places where he could place the lad to the advantage of the youngster. This organization has a department expressly for the purpose of finding locations for homeless boys and girls, with a paid secretary to take care of this work.

ALL IOWANS ARE CALLED TO MEET ON AUGUST 11TH

Col. A. B. Shaw, president of the Iowa Association of Southern California, sounds the rallying call for all the Hawkeyes of this western land to "round up" in a mammoth picnic reunion of old time friends at Bixby park, Long Beach, on August 11th.

Picnickers will carry basket dinners or may buy lunch at the park. Hot coffee will be supplied free to all who wear the official badges. Ninety-nine county headquarters with registers will be open, ninety-nine picnics in full swing all day. Separate headquarters for each college and university with special reunion hour from three to four o'clock. Any town, county or college may plan special reunion. Over 300,000 Hawkeyes of the West waiting the call. There will be a brief program of songs and addresses after the dinner hour. President Shaw will preside.

It is up to the Iowans to pass the news along to others. Ask questions of C. H. Parsons, secretary, 10261, Continental National Bank, Ninth and Main streets, Los Angeles.

Under new business at the meeting of the chamber of commerce directors last night Mrs. Buckman recited the hard case of a resident of that locality assessed $5 for the improvement of Los Feliz road who had never received the notice and is now being sued for the assessment and $25 additional by a Los Angeles firm which has bought up the small claims. The letter asked the chamber to take some action for relief if possible. Messrs Campbell and Eastman confirmed the situation set forth by Mrs. Buckman, telling of bank clients who are suffering from the same injustice and pronouncing it "a dirty shame." On motion of Mr. Wilson a committee was appointed, composed of D. H. Smith, A. R. Eastman and Lloyd Wilson to take the matter up with City Attorney Ray Morrow and see what if anything can be done.

BULLETINS ON MR. HARDING'S ILLNESS

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(By the Associated Press) An informal statement issued at 8 a. m. by Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, the president's personal physician, said that Mr. Harding had spent "a very restful night and his pulse at that hour was 114, temperature 99 and respiration 40." These figures represented decreases in the pulse rate and temperature as compared with the last previous bulletin, the pulse rate being less by two and the temperature 1.2 degrees lower. The respiration rate given in each bulletin was the same.

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(By the Associated Press) An official statement issued at 10:01 a. m. by the five doctors attending President Harding said Mr. Harding still was much exhausted, but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit.

At that hour the chief executive, according to the bulletin, was breathing with less labor than previously and there was but little cough.

The statement follows:
"The president is fairly comfortable this morning, after a few hours of sleep. His breathing is less labored and there is but little cough. The lung condition is about the same as yesterday. He is still much exhausted, but maintains his normal buoyancy of spirit. Small amounts of food are being taken regularly, and there is regular and satisfactory elimination. The temperature is 99 degrees, pulse 114, respiration 30. While progress is being made, every care is necessary to assure freedom from further complications.

MARION MASONS SEE GLENDAL

Guests of the Hollywood
Commandery, They Are
Toured Through City

Tuesday afternoon officers of the Marion, Ohio Commandery, Knights Templar, of which President Harding is a member and who formed part of the presidential party, were given a tour of Glendale by officers of Hollywood Commandery, of which they are guests.

Last night they put on the work of conferring the Order of the Temple at Hollywood Commandery and Commander R. V. Hogue and staff of this city were present as guests and met the Marion knights. To Dr. Hogue they expressed their admiration of Glendale and ardent desire to live here, which might prevent their ever returning to Marion.

At the Hollywood meeting emphasis was placed on the announcement that the ceremonial Thursday afternoon at Hollywood Bowl at which the traveling beausant will be presented to the Hollywood Commandery, will be carried through without change as announced in the Glendale Press yesterday, except that Secretary George B. Christian will represent the president and read the speech he was to have delivered.

The Knights Templar parade will start from Vine and Hollywood at 3 o'clock and proceed to the bowl where exercises will begin at 4 p. m. Glendale knights are to leave here at 1:30 for the Hollywood temple.

At the banquet which followed the session, Sir Eminent J. A. Knapp, of Marion, who has known the president intimately for 25 years, reviewed Mr. Harding's life up to the time of his inauguration as president. The Marion party includes 41 men and seven ladies, all persons of interesting personality, declares Commander Hogue, who is anxious that Glendale should be well represented at the bowl.

ICE TRUCK KILLS CHILD PLAYING IN ITS REAR

Driver Backs Up on Douglas
Mattice, Four Years Old

The day was warm, and like many of the other children of the neighborhood, little 4-year-old Douglas Mattice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mattice, of 2222 Fargo street, Los Angeles, just across the Southern Pacific tracks from Glendale, stood at the rear of the ice truck in hopes of getting a piece of ice. The other boys, many of them much larger than Douglas, were doing the same thing and he did not see why he should not do likewise.

The driver of the truck did not see the lad as he took his seat behind the wheel, and started to back the machine preparatory to turning. The car had traveled just a few feet when a childery was heard. The driver stopped the car and sprang to the street, picking up the child, who had been knocked to the roadway. The little fellow did not seem so badly hurt, but not wishing to take a chance the parents called an ambulance and he was rushed to the receiving hospital in Los Angeles. When he was later brought to the Glendale hospital it was found that the boy had suffered a fracture of the skull.

The accident occurred at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and at 4 o'clock the little fellow died.

The driver of the truck, whose name could not be learned, was exonerated from blame by Mrs. Mattice, according to Glendale police. The little body was taken to the Jewel City undertaking parlors, where an inquest will be held Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

CRISIS IS PASSED

Takes Long Sleep and Plans Return Trip to Washington

PRESIDENTIAL HEADQUARTERS, PALACE HOTEL, SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(By the Associated Press) President Harding today seemed certain of recovery, barring development of new complications in his illness or the equally improbable increase of the present ones.

"Since we have our toxin well under control, I feel safe in saying that we have passed the peak load of trouble," was the way General Sawyer summarized the situation in a formal statement. "I don't want to be too emphatic about it because we always face complications. But I feel that the crisis is over and that the president is well on the road to recovery."

This feeling was manifestly shared by all of the other physicians and members of the president's immediate party. Mrs. Harding was understood to be even more optimistic. The president himself was convinced that the battle had been won, for he was quoted by Secretary Work as having said late yesterday:

"Work, I think we're almost out of the woods."
The president's own feelings were expressed at a time when his condition was not so satisfactory as it became as the evening came on and in turn grew into the night. He was said to be extremely cheerful when he awakened about 9 o'clock last night from what Dr. Sawyer described as the best and most natural sleep he had had since his illness began. He was awake only a short time and then dropped back into a sleep that was described as quite different and exceedingly more restful than the nervous sleep of Monday night, when all the physicians were agreed that his condition was grave.

There was an understanding today among members of the presidential party that the chief executive and Mrs. Harding would return direct to Washington, leaving San Francisco as soon as the physicians would give their permission for the president to begin travel. The route was expected to be via Ogden, Utah; Omaha, Neb., and from Chicago to Washington.

Railroad officials have given careful study to the selection of the overland route east and have recommended that the trip home be made that way, the train running at a comfortable speed and probably stopping at night in order that the president might have complete rest. The physicians attending Mr. Harding said the starting time depended entirely on the rapidity with which the president recovered. In the event improvement continued and there was no relapse, it was said, there was reason to believe the start might be made in about a week.

The building permits in Glendale for July went racing, rambling, romping up to a grand total yesterday of $565,036, the largest July total this city has ever experienced and one of which the city may feel proud. Compare this with the totals of the past two years:

July, 1921, $362,525.
July, 1922, $380,100.
July, 1923, $565,036.

Look 'em over, and see the way this city is advancing. Some old-time local pessimists whose grouches could be felt in the dark have been claiming during the past few weeks that things in Glendale are slowing up, and have been painting all kinds of dark cloud stories as to how things will go in the future. The above figures should be enough to drive these complainers to their holes.

The excess of building during the month just closed over the same month last year is $184,932. The permits for the year thus far amount to $5,733,971. This is just $572,000 less than the total for the entire of 1922, and 1923 has still five months to go with some mighty fine permits coming up.

Following are the permits issued during the past twenty-four hours:

SEN. JOHNSON IS LAND TITLES ARE PEEVED OVER THE HARDING SPEECH REPORTED UPON TO BOARD

Released While President Is Ill to Prevent Sharp Reply From Hiram

BY LAWRENCE MARTIN (Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, August 1.—Senator Hiram Johnson's friends were furiously indignant today over what they declared was a deliberate political "trick" played on Johnson and on them by members of President Harding's official party.

Publication in this morning's newspapers of the foreign relations speech President Harding would have delivered here last night had he been well was the cause of all the trouble, which may grow into a political incident almost as significant as the famous Hughes-Johnson mixup of 1916.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is the principal target of the angry Johnsonites. They blame Hoover for getting the speech released for publication as a means of playing upon public sympathy for the stricken president to turn California against Johnson in the world court issue. If Hoover personally is not responsible, then some pro-Hoover and anti-Johnson member of the official party is to blame, the Johnson forces think.

The fact that the speech was released by express direction of President Harding himself does not in any way mitigate or alter the case, Johnson's friends declare. They say Mr. Harding was too ill to understand the situation and the consequences of his action when he decided a controversy among members of his official family about the propriety of releasing the speech as a statement to the press. The president, Johnson's friends say, was imposed upon.

The controversy grew out of the fact that some of Mr. Harding's advisers foresaw exactly the situation which has arisen. They had read the speech. They knew it would evoke criticism from Johnson and those who agree with him in opposing American participation in the world court. That criticism would have been expressed with utmost freedom had Mr. Harding been well. But nobody can with good taste engage in a controversy with a man who is barely out of the shadow of death.

Some of the president's advisers, understanding the Hoover-Johnson antagonism in California and desiring to avoid anything like the Hughes-Johnson mixup, argued that the speech be given up. But the other view, which was that the public was entitled to the president's report on foreign relations, prevailed with him.

Because of the president's illness, comment upon his statement probably will be somewhat restrained. The document, prepared with great care, was in brief an argument in favor of American adhesion to the world court.

Queer Mixup in Original Deeds Is Discovered

Only three members of the board of education were present at the meeting held Tuesday night, viz. President David Hibben, Mrs. A. A. Barton and Mr. Learned. Mrs. Barton acted as secretary pro tem. Its most important action followed the report submitted by Ed Lynch, relative to title restrictions on property included in the Cerritos avenue campus, which showed that the Richardson deed to a strip 95 feet wide in the center of the campus running from Brand to Glendale avenue, is restricted to school use and employed for any other purpose will revert to the heirs of the grantors of the deed. The report also showed that the deed to the portion fronting Cerritos avenue is granted to the board and "its successors in office forever," leaving out the word "assigns" contained in the most deeds. In the opinion of the board a legal interpretation of the clause is desirable, and it voted to notify the architect to proceed with plans for a building to be located on the 95 foot strip.

The board adopted a resolution accepting deeds to all the land it has purchased except that from E. C. Dick on West Milford, which is still in escrow. The deeds cover the following property: Sparr Heights school site, Pelanconi purchase and Edwards & Wilsey property for the Glenwood road site, the property of Rev. O. P. Rider and Frederick Weisenheimer on East Acacia and of Mrs. Eulalia Barber on East Park avenue, to be added to the campus of the Glendale Avenue school; the purchases from Misses Ida D. and Harriet Myers to be added to the Magnolia school campus, purchase from Mrs. Virginia Jones to be added to Columbus campus, and the property of Mrs. Grace Horton, adjoining the Pacific Avenue school grounds.

Action on the bidders' bond of May & Hellman, which the board is still holding after some discussion was deferred until a later meeting.

Bids for school furniture to cost in the neighborhood of $5000 were opened and were referred to Superintendent White and Mr. Hansen for checking, inspection of samples, and report.

Bids previously received for school supplies aggregating $546 were considered and Mr. Hansen was instructed to divide them between Shafe's Book store of Glendale, the Glendale Book store, and Blake, Moffatt & Towne of Los Angeles.

Announcement was made that bids would be received at next week's meeting for the painting and repair of plumbing of the buildings at Colorado and Columbus Avenue schools.

In response to a request from the P. T. A. of Columbus Avenue and Mrs. Knicker, who operates the cafeteria there, that the cafeteria be painted and a water heater be installed, the board voted to grant the requests.

Mr. Hansen was instructed to confer with the architects of the various new school buildings in regard to the use of water and power by contractors in construction work.

On the recommendation of Geo. Lindsey, architect of the Acacia and Central Avenue school buildings, the heating contract for Acacia was awarded to the Hammel Radiator company on a bid of $1000, and contract for Central Avenue, heating plant to the Potter Radiator company at $1315.

The annual report of the condition of the city schools was presented by Superintendent White and he was directed to ascertain how much it would cost to have same printed in pamphlet form.

A payment of $8046 to George W. Campbell on the Acacia Avenue school building contract, was authorized.

A letter was read from City Engineer Dupuy, which stated that the board would be called upon to deed a 20-foot strip on Glenwood road for the widening of that thoroughfare and Supt. White was asked to notify Mr. Dupuy to be forward with the proceedings for the widening of the street.

Mr. Hansen reported that the estimate cost of renovating school desks would average $150 each or approximately $1200. He and Mr. White were authorized to have as much of this work done as they deemed wise.

Railroad Earnings are Not Guaranteed

A common impression exists that railroad earnings are in some way guaranteed by the Government. This is not a fact.

The railroads were paid for the Federal Control period a fixed rental and were given an option for continuance of this basis for six months thereafter. This arrangement expired August 31, 1920, since which time nothing even resembling a guarantee has been in effect.

Under the Constitution a railroad has always been entitled to earn a fair return upon its property devoted to the public use, the percentage which constituted such fair return being a question for determination by the courts.

The transportation act says:
"In the exercise of its power to prescribe just and reasonable rates, the Commission shall... adjust such rates so that carriers... will, under honest, efficient and economical management... earn an aggregate annual net railway operating income equal, as nearly as may be, to a fair return upon the aggregate value" of the common carrier property, giving "due consideration... to the transportation needs of the country and the necessity... of enlarging such facilities in order to provide the people of the United States with adequate transportation."

For the two years ending March 1, 1922, such fair return was fixed at 6 per cent. Since then it has been reduced by the Commission to 5.75 per cent.

In no year, however, have the railroads secured the fair return contemplated by the Act, as the following will show:

Year	Percentage Actually Earned
1920	0.33
1921	3.3
1922	4.14

It is entirely clear, therefore, that the law in no sense guarantees the earnings of the railroads. If it did, the Government would owe the railroads more than a billion dollars for deficits in 1920, 1921 and 1922.

Since January 1, 1923, the earnings of the railroads as a whole have been better than for the same period in any of the three preceding years, but the rate of return is still lower than the Interstate Commerce Commission has prescribed as reasonable.

The Transportation Act has not been the cause of increases in railroad rates. One of the authors of the Act has said:

"Rates have advanced simply because the cost of maintenance and operation has more than doubled since pre-war days while railroad rates, taken as a whole, are now about 54 per cent higher than they were before the Government took over the railroads at the beginning of the year 1918."

The price of transportation can only be reduced as the cost of transportation is reduced and the railroad's cost of living has increased in like proportion to that of the individual. Every effort, however, is being made to reduce it.

Constructive suggestions are always welcome.
Omaha, Nebraska, August 1, 1923.
C. R. GRAY, President.

A SAVAGE TIRE "AD" --- WITH COMMENTS

No. 11 OF A SERIES

Nothing what is known as "the deadly parallel" is a favorite means among advertisers of emphasizing the advantages of one method or proposition over another. Two diametrically opposed thoughts are placed before the reader, and the reader is asked to choose between them. Where the comparison is fairly drawn this is a most satisfactory way of forming an opinion and means of coming to a conclusion. The results on one side are weighed against the results on the other and it is a case of "may the best man win." We have used that method in the "ad" below and we've tried to be fair in our comparison. The decision rests with you. Royal B. Lee, Advertising Manager.

ARE YOU PAYING FOR UNCERTAINTY AND WASTE

COMFORT
DEPENDABILITY
AND ECONOMY

WHEN YOU BUY TIRES

There's more than the price you pay in actual cash to be considered. There's the increased possibility of hours of wasted time, annoying delays, and even hard work to remember. Unfortunate occurrences may happen to any tire, it is true—but the fact remains that some tires are much more dependable than others—and the best tire cannot be made cheaply.

You're inviting anxiety, uncertainty and waste—and paying out money to get it—when you purchase unknown, cheap tires.

You're increasing the possibilities of added comfort, dependability and economy—and you're paying less per mile to get it—when you purchase high class tires of a responsible make.

Why pay for annoyance?

Profit by Using PRESS WANT ADS

Our little Indian character is a versatile fellow. Here we have him painting a sign. The truth of the matter is, we wanted to show some signs of life and get a little action into our rather long heading for this ad, so we put a paint bucket and brush into his hands and he went to it. Not so bad, what?

Isn't this apropos? Almost everybody buys tires—and we think they ought to be interested in knowing what happens.

This is just another way of looking at the matter of costs. If your time and freedom from annoyance aren't worth the difference between the price of a cheap tire and a quality tire, you are perfectly justified in "taking a chance" with a cheap tire, of course. That is your business. Our business is to make good tires and we'd like to convert you on the benefits to be derived from them. That's all.

You're not apt to get all of these in a very cheap tire. Price? Yes. But the rest—well—maybe yes, maybe no. Mostly no. That's the difference. Why not try Savage Tires next time?

Of the tire dealers in your vicinity, those listed here are the best equipped to give you reliable information regarding Savage Tires. Come in sometime before you buy tires again and see the different types of tires we make, and compare them with the tires you're using now. Then you can decide for yourself.

PRESIDENT PASSES ZERO HOUR AND IS RECOVERING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(United Press) (6:35 a. m.) President Harding was believed to have awakened at approximately 6:30 a. m. today, after what was understood to have been a comfortable night.

At that hour attendants were called to his room and there were signs of activity around the executive suite. A waiter carried in a breakfast tray, presumably for one of the physicians.

A few minutes later it was learned that the president was propped up in bed, being shaved by his valet.

At about the same time someone threw open the door leading into the corridor from the living room of the executive suite and immediately the corridor was flooded with the shrill music of canaries singing in the morning light. Eight of the birds are living in the Harding suite.

The music seemed catching and soon maids going about their morning work in the opposite end of the corridor began singing quietly and everywhere there were smiles—giving promise of starting a day perhaps to be marked by good cheer.

The president had slept a little previous to 11 p. m., when Dr. Sawyer visited him and issued the last bulletin of the night. He then went to sleep once more and remained sleeping until 2 p. m., when Dr. J. T. Boone visited the bedside. The president was said to have awakened then and to have gone to sleep once more, and so remained long after daylight.

Mrs. Harding was understood to have rested well during the night. There had been no signs of activity around her room at this hour. It was believed possible she might go for an automobile ride today if the president's condition continues favorable.

It was considered a particularly good indication as to Mr. Harding's rest that he had passed through the "zero-hour" of 3 a. m. without any showing of anxiety on the part of his attendants.

It was learned informally that the president appeared rested this morning. He was said to have asked for newspapers and they had been taken into the executive suite.

A waiter took breakfast into Mrs. Harding's room about 7 a. m., presumably for Mrs. Harding, and indicating that she had awakened early.

DE MOLAYS GO TO VAN NUYS TO CONFER DEGREES

Glendale. De Molays journeyed last night to Van Nuys, where, before the Masons of the vicinity, they exemplified the work of the order, conferring upon three candidates the Initiatory and De Molay degrees. Master Councilor Paul O. Morgan was in charge of the work, which was put on in a most admirable manner.

A large number of De Molays from the local chapter were present, travelling to Van Nuys in a long caravan of automobiles. Masons from the entire valley district were present to witness the degrees put on by the Glendale boys.

Dr. Marshall Stewart, deputy member of the grand council for Southern California, expressed hope that after seeing the work the Van Nuys Masons would soon sponsor a De Molay chapter for the boys of the city. He added that Glendale chapter would be the logical body to institute the new chapter when it was formed.

Mr. Williams, master of the Masonic lodge, expressed his appreciation to the Glendale boys for the work, and stated the De Molay would fill a long felt want in Van Nuys. After the degrees an ice cream feed was staged in the banquet room of the temple.

'BROADWAY GOLD' OPENS TODAY AT THE T. D. & L.

"Broadway Gold," with Elaine Hammerstein in the role of a young show girl, and with Elliot Dexter and Kathryn Williams in other important roles will have its premiere at the T. D. & L. Theater today and tomorrow with the continuous vaudeville from 1:30 p. m. until 10:30 p. m.

This picture which was produced under the supervision of Edward Diller is a screen adaptation of W. Wonderley Carey's story which was a feature in the recent issues of Young's Magazine. It deals with the typical Broadway crowd, of hard working chorus girls, and of the types known as gold diggers.

Mr. Dillon has skillfully used the glittering and frothy background of New York's night life as the setting for the unfolding of his tale, and if we may believe the critics he has successfully carried out his intention of making a picture, unusual for its dramatic elements, and at the same time kept it from overstepping the bounds of probability or possibility.

'THE TOWN THAT FORGOT GOD' AT GLENDALE

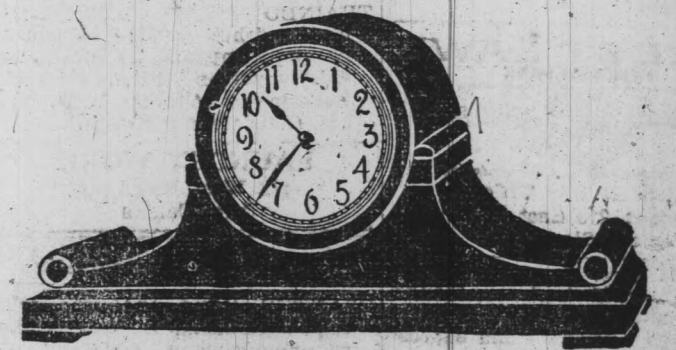

Few pictures released during the past two years can boast of such a superlative cast of screen artists as portray the various difficult roles in the William Fox special production, "The Town That Forgot God," closing today at the Glendale theater.

Heading the cast of eleven notable players is Jane Thomas, who needs no introduction to followers of the silent drama. Her work in previous Fox successes, including the famous story of mother love, "Silver Wings," in which Mary Carr played the featured role, proved her ability as a screen player of the first magnitude. In "The Town That Forgot God" she is given her greatest opportunity and she takes advantage of it in such remarkable fashion that her elevation to stardom appears to be a certainty.

"Bunny" Grauer, a lad in his early teens, is another artist who wins new laurels in this portrayal through his exceptional portrayal of a difficult role. Starting his histrionic career at the early age of seven years with David Warfield in "The Return of Peter Grimm," a stage play that is recognized as one of the greatest successes ever offered, this youngster has rapidly come to the fore, as a compelling dramatic actor.

Others in the cast include Warren Kreh, Harry Benham, Grace Barton, Francis Healy, Edwin Dennison, James Devine, James Kenny, A. E. Ely and others of equal prominence. Harry Millard, who directed "Over the Hill," and other Fox triumphs, supervised the making of this production.

One of our best buys is a large home and lot near the foothills—just west of North Central Ave. The lot is 96x130 with a 20-ft. alley on side. A good 7-room home for large family, in east section. Convenient to schools. Lot 50x140, 2 lavatories and toilets, one bath, four bedrooms, 3 porches, one for sleeping porch if desired.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY

Two sets French doors, one opening onto side patio. Very pretty buffet. Walls, ceiling and woodwork same as in living room. Breakfast room tastefully decorated also with buffet. A kitchen the last word in convenience, tile sink, tile bath. Two bedrooms, both large enough for twin beds, etc. A large screened porch on rear which could be used for sleeping porch. Automatic heater, etc. Worth $12,600 but priced at $10,000 with $3000 cash.

IN MEMORIAM

Among the first to inhabit "Babyland" at Forest Lawn Memorial park is Baby Agnes Constance, who was laid to rest at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, July 31, 1923. The number of friends present at the Little Church of the Flowers testified as no words could to her lovable nature and charming personality. To know her was to love her.
Baby Agnes was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greatrex in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, on November 14, 1920. She had lived two years and eight months to cheer and love all who met her. The beautiful Episcopal service was read by Rev. Philip Kemp, rector of St. Mark's church of Glendale.

RAILROAD MOTIVE POWER

The statement is made, unofficially however, that the Santa Fe intends to build an electric line from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Whether this is true or not, it easily might be true. Travelers who have observed the superior traffic conditions on the Milwaukee, which has been electrified from Harlow to the coast, have wondered how soon the method would become general. Where electric power is so easily obtained as in the mountains it would seem to be only a question of time when it would become the sole motive power for rail transportation. This would promote safety and comfort, and go far towards banishing the vexing problem of fuel supply.

There are some who profess to believe that the railroad is soon to be obsolete, and that all future traffic will be through the air. It is fair to say that there is small basis for such a theory. Doubtless transportation by airplane is destined to become more important. That it could take the care of any considerable part of carriage either of passengers or freight seems unlikely, even if it be regarded as desirable. It may be that the ultimate airship will be of vast capacity, and of size and form permitting it to be handled at terminals, but if there are indications of such change, the public is unaware of them.

The chances are that for a long time the public will have to depend upon railroads in about the measure it does now. So far as the railroads lose patronage, it promises to be in favor of the automobile rather than of the airship. Consequently the public retains interest in the quality of its railway service, and it would welcome every change from the smoking locomotive to the clean and comparatively noiseless motor-drawn train.

PROFESSIONAL "FIXERS"

At this writing there is a man in jail in Los Angeles on the charge of having accepted money to "fix" a criminal case. Such a man makes the pretense of having influence with the courts or the police. He is ready, for a sufficient fee, to tender his services on behalf of anybody accused of crime. This fee varies, being based in each instance, on the amount it is possible to wring out of the victim.

Society contains few more pernicious types than the fixer. There are many reasons why he should be put out of business, and placed beyond the possibility of resuming it. Generally he is a plain swindler. He has no influence. He takes the money he is able to extort, just as any other bunko operator robs a dupe. His activities are a reflection upon the courts and processes of law. He makes capital of his avowed ability to debauch men who are under oath to uphold justice. It is possible that one of these pests does have an understanding either with the police or a petty judge. In such circumstance he deserves the penalty as fully as though lying about his "pull." There is the difference only, that as he stands in the dock to hear his sentence, his fellow rogues should be there to hear theirs.

In the example under consideration a young business man was suspected of theft, and locked up, leaving to his wife the responsibility of conducting the business. She, young and inexperienced, devoted to her husband regardless of his errors, sought to help him. Then came the "fixer" to explain what an aid he could be, but that he would need money. "He got money, all she could raise. She got nothing. It is time to fix the fixer."

HOW GIRLS DRESS

At least one Chicago concern employing a large number of young women has informed them that they must abandon sleeveless dress or be effaced from the payroll. Doubtless the great majority of them will bow to the mandate, holding the while the opinion that the author of it is a mean old thing. There will be small tendency to take issue with such view.

It is desirable, of course, that all girls dress in a becoming and comfortable fashion. Of what this fashion shall be contrived, the wearer is at least as good a judge as any. During the heated term, as it is an annual visitation on Chicago, it is reasonable to assume that bare arms render the task of living, a little less irksome. That they interfere with the work of the sleeveless individual would be a proposition difficult to sustain. If the tendency to stare at the bare members is noted on the part of the male attaché, he is the one who ought to be fired.

Girls who work for their livings, and who earn the money to pay for their clothes, may not constitutionally be restricted as to the precise cut of their garments. If they are restricted, it is by the exercise of an arbitrary authority for which there is no statutory basis. As a rule these girls will wear what pleases them, just as a few months ago they bobbed their hair if they felt like doing so, intimating to the carping world the blessedness of attending to its own business. This is something that the world does with reluctance.

JUDICIAL MACHINERY

Six new superior judges have been added to the number already functioning in Los Angeles county, bringing the total to twenty-nine. If civil and criminal cases fail to be handled with celerity, there will have to be some reason advanced rather than the old one of lack of judicial machinery. It is probable that in no other county of equal population are there so many judges of similar jurisdiction.

The mere outsider, viewing the courts not as an expert but as a citizen, interested in administration of justice, and the footing of the bills, has not been particularly backwards with adverse criticism. It has seemed to him that trials have been permitted to drag on to unconscionable length. This he has been unable to ascribe to any other cause than dilatory action, suggested by lawyers and permitted by the bench. A trial is likely to be marked by long delays for which no reasonable excuse is presented. The delays begin even before the trial, and constitute the bulk of the preliminaries. If a lawyer wants a case postponed he has his way about it. In every trial of consequence there are objections, made for the purpose of confusing the issue, and laying the basis for repetition of the whole process; a new jury, a fresh recital of the testimony, another set of fervid addresses, a second batch of instructions. The more delay, the less likelihood of ultimate agreement.

Judges keep hours that would be regarded as extremely easy by men in any other profession. They have long annual vacations such as other brain workers view with hopeless envy. The general belief is that judges do not apply themselves with the energy that most salaried toilers find essential. Perhaps this is the gentlemen a grave warning. If so the citizen views the matter with open mind, is ready to be convinced, and thereafter, to apologize if such be the requirement of courtesy.

Frequent arrests of men on the charge of having sold worthless stock ought to awaken the public to the fact that such stocks exist, and that the purchase of them is not wise. Many of these stocks are supported by absurd claims that should be recognized in their true character by the reasonably intelligent.

The treaty of peace between Turkey and the European powers has been signed. So something did come of the Lausanne conference after all. It is now to be hoped that the parties signatory will keep the faith.

BUSINESS AND CLOTHES

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Chicago is shocked by sleeveless young women in places of business though the city stands up very well under the same phenomena on the streets.

The People's Gas, Light and Coke company, through its manager, B. K. Mulaney, has issued an order and to the point: "Wear sleeves or lose your job."

The girls must choose between patronizing the designers and patronizing the employment agencies.

The dispatch which reported this item did not state whether the gas, light and coke girls had ugly arms or the men who worked with them had jealous wives. What the girls should have done; of course, was to cut their sleeves off an inch at a time as they did their skirts during and immediately following the war and so have incurred by slow degrees the high mugs in business offices to the sight of arms.

In sharp contrast to the action of the Chicago company is that of a business man in Newark, N. J. This person is a studious man, an observer and a psychologist. He wants his girls to be quick, deft and prompt, and he figured that wearing knickerbockers would do the trick; consequently all the girls who work for him must now appear daily for work wearing knickerbockers.

Now if knickerbockers guarantee promptness as opposed to tardiness, may we assume that this man has also ordered all his girl employees to bob their hair? And, following the thought along logically, why not also order all powder and paint left off the faces and lips of the young women? Nothing is much more time consuming than the use of the lip stick and certainly nothing makes a girl look cheaper than painted lips.

Masculine reactions to feminine attire are and will always remain a mystery. Men designers plan sleeveless gowns, men merchants sell them and then men employers order the girls not to wear them. The girls surely must be deeply puzzled. Women fight for years to establish their right to hike and ride in knickerbockers and the clergy use the fact as a text on the loss of womanly modesty, the husbands and brothers have fits; the reactionaries die in shoals of nervous shock and then suddenly we wake up and find a progressive employer ordering out the knickerbocker squad in the interest of business efficiency.

Women if some peculiar man will wake up by and by and discover that sleeves are in the way of free movement and order the girls in his employ to quit wearing them?

It's a puzzling world for women and it's a wise woman who knows what not to wear. The business firms stood for knee length skirts and the public for one piece bathing suits; and so it's a bit of a shock to discover that it is the feminine arm that must not appear in public unclad.

Well, girls, chignon and net make lovely sleeves, artistic and cool; and a pretty arm is all the prettier when seen through the sheer goods that conceal nothing but meet the prejudices of the boss. And, by the way, may we be permitted to wonder if those knickerbocker clad young women must also wear leggings? We should be thorough about such things.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES
(Find the error in this article)

Is the Right Word "Are?"

H. E. Eller: "In one of your recent articles, would it not be better to use the word 'our' instead of 'my,' in view of the fact that we is used in the same sentence?"

Answer: The sentence referred to reads as follows: "In view of the fact that you declined to allow time ago to permit us to send our track drills to Willard for repairs, do you object to my returning them to . . ." The problem submitted related to the use of me, of course, is correct. However, since the writer, in the first part of the sentence uses the words us and our, it would probably have been more consistent for him to use our in the latter part.

E. Peterson: "Will you kindly advise through your column the correct use of the following: fish and fishes; should and ought? Is the accent on the first or the last syllable of address?"

Answer: Use fishes when speaking of them severally; use fish when speaking of them collectively. Example: He caught six fishes. There is a countless number of fish in the sea. However both plurals are more or less interchangeable, fish being probably preferred. Ought and should are synonymous; either one is correct, although ought is probably the stronger word since it implies moral obligation. The accent falls upon the last syllable of address.

THE LISTENING POST

Here is the man who has achieved.
It matters not what he has achieved.
So long as it is something wholesome and worth achieving.

JAMES W. FOLEY

Of reliability.

For the man who achieves has these.
Otherwise his achievement will not stand.
It will go down sometime like a house of cards.

Because the foundation of achievement is in the man.
And if he is a man built of sand, then the achievement rests on a foundation of sand.
And goes down at the first storm.

Men who have achieved have learned to do things themselves.
They have learned to value other men and make a good use of their services.
But they have been ready to do things themselves.

They have not at the beginning left important things to be done by George.
Or by Tom.

Songs of the Poets

"In the Dark, In the Dew"—By Mary Newmarch Prescott

In the dark, in the dew,
I am smiling back at you;
But you cannot see the smile,
And you're thinking all the while
How I turn my face from you,
In the dark, in the dew.

In the dark, in the dew,
All my love goes out to you,
Flutters like a bird in pain,
Dies and comes to life again;
While you whisper, "Sweetest, hark
Someone's sighing in the dark,
In the dark, in the dew."

In the dark, in the dew,
All my heart cries out to you,
As I cast it at your feet,
Sweet indeed, but not too sweet;
Wondering will you hear it beat,
Beat for you and bleed for you,
In the dark, in the dew!

THE WORK CURE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE growth of an idea, the spreading of it through your mind, as the veins and patches of frost cover a window pane, is interesting.

So spread the idea of the value of Work.

You begin with the discovery that Work is not a curse, that it is not something to be dodged and evaded like pain or disease or death, but it is something friendly and healing and helpful, to be sought as a golden quest.

Next you discover that all happiness is a by-product of Work, and that most miseries belong to the litter of that uncleanest of domesticated animals, Idleness.

A further spread of this idea is that Work is a great Cure.

First and most obvious among cures is Medicine. But pretty soon we discover that this is far from sufficient.

Then come along those who tell us that the cure lies in the Will.

This failing in a good many cases, others tell us that it is the imagination that will lead us to health, that we can be kept sound and normal by Beliefs.

And now comes the Work Cure. Fortunately it has been taken up enthusiastically by the hard headed medical profession and has not been left to the advocacy of uplift writers and faddists.

The long name for the Work Cure is Occupational Therapy, which is the kind of thing that doctors like and is properly irritating to the layman.

The definition as given by the National Society is: "Occupational Therapy is a method of treating the sick or injured by means of instruction and employment in productive occupation."

This is but another form of the old common sense idea that both body and soul will be healthier if you quit tinkering with them.

This is the negative way of stating the case; the positive is to say that interest in life is half the cure. If we can get our minds sufficiently occupied in something outside of us, everything inside of us takes care of itself.

Of course this is no cure all, but something to be used at the right place and time under the supervision of the intelligent physician.

Everyone, doctor or not, knows that diversion is of great aid in convalescence and that depression is the worst enemy to recovery. And nothing but our old friend Work, if it is work of the right kind, better provides diversion and prevents depression.

On the door that deals out of the chamber of morbidity are printed the words, "A New Interest."

Of course work to be curative must be what one wants to do and not what one is compelled to do.

In many government hospitals Occupational Therapy has been used successfully to retrain the muscles and nerves of wounded soldiers. In insane asylums it has been found valuable in cases marked by violence and by vicious habits.

Statistics show the positive economic value of the Work Cure. Injured men are returned to productive work on an average in four weeks instead of five, in ten months instead of a year. Two casual insurance companies employed Occupational Therapists as an experiment. At the end of a year they reported that the average period of convalescence of policy holders had been shortened by four and a half days.

There are many roads to salvation, and not the least of these is Work.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There has just been held an international convention of journeymen horseshoers. The fact is accepted with surprise. So long ago was the village smithy turned into a garage, that the rising generation is unaware that it ever was anything else.

The school boy of a generation ago used to lag by the way to see a hot shoe applied to the equine hoof, and to watch the sparks fly as the iron was wrought into precise shape. The chances are that the school boy of today never saw a horse shod, and doesn't know of any such operation.

According to the horseshoers, although they may have been trying to cheer themselves along, the horse is coming back. The once familiar presence of the animal would not be unwelcome, but not in former abundance. Fear that the horse was to become extinct has disturbed the public mind somewhat.

Without horses, the great game of pitching shoes would pass into oblivion, and its passage be regretted. Of course it would be possible to make something that resembled a horseshoe, and use it to pitch, but it could not be the real thing. There could be no joy in pitching a shoe that never has performed honest service on the highway.

Two Dane dogs set to guard viands at a New Jersey picnic, killed a lad who undertook a foray suggested by the tempting array. The viands were saved, but doubtless the owner feels that it was at too great a price. Almost anybody would prefer to lose a sandwich or two, to causing the death, even of a mischievous lad.

The world will hear with equanimity the news that the engagement of two film stars to marry has been broken. If it were to take the trouble to make any record of its emotions, this would set forth the fact that it doesn't care a whoop.

Added to the sins of La Follette is that of responsibility for Magnus Johnson. The La Follette influence is seeping across the bounds of Wisconsin. Of course it is easy to understand why La Follette should have helped Johnson. He was in need of another tool.

Senator Couzens sees what isn't when he sees danger of a revolution due to the continued absence of beer with a kick in it.

The insolence of pretending that a party sent to Russia by Hearst could get accurate information there begins to be realized. The members of the group go as instrumentalities for the bolstering up of the soviets. Otherwise they could not have gone with this particular crowd.

A Chicago woman was wearing seven bracelets the other night. A robber tried the display and with unnecessary rudeness, deprived her of them. Doubtless her bad taste did need correction, but not more markedly than the bad manners of the thief.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE DANCING LESSON

When I was little the grown folk used to speak lightly of the dancing lesson. Foolishness! Waste of time! Fit only for empty heads. Silly sort of play, whirling around and around!

They may have been right about that sort of dancing. That is not the kind I mean. It isn't any of those things. It is the secret of teaching the children the very poetry of motion; a motion that is as suave as a sonata, as gracious as a St. Gaudens statue, as lovely as a Corot spring.

There is no foolishness in that. There is the keenest kind of intelligence at work. There is no waste of time but a very sane use of it. The child is learning to control his body in a way that fills him with an artist's delight in it; in a way that sends a thrill of health and vitality through every fibre of his being; in a way that teaches him the closeness, the perfect harmony that abides between his body and spirit.

Did you ever watch a great bear relax his body, dropping off the weight from his finger ends, off his shaggy toes, until he lay, a great brown heap, so soft, so easy, so restful?

He looked as though a lift from your wee finger would raise him easily. And all the while you knew that one flit of his sprawly paw would wipe you off as a child would brush out a fly. Clumsy creature? Suppose you try. Drop the weight from your shoulders and let your arms hang limp and boneless and in perfect ease. Do the same thing with your legs and your back and lie down on the floor in a soft unresisting heap and rest there with long happy sighs.

You can't—because you have never had the right sort of dancing teacher. That's why you get so tired and cramped up and nervous, and have to take annoying vacations. You never learned how to control your body so as to conserve and use its energy, to relax like the big brown bear.

The little children who go to the right dancing school learn how to be "bears." They learn how to carry great strength with tremendous ease. They learn that strength can be used with seemingly effortless motions that rest the body instead of wearing it.

They learn that they can learn on their spirit to carry them up beyond the plane of effort without strain and with the sense of gracious loveliness and alluring beauty.

If you have a tense little child teaching is the thing needed. He needs the intelligent dancing teacher who floods him with music and shows him the way to the freedom of his body, to the elimination of cramping inhibitions that kill his spontaneity and joy.

Some day we will have such lessons in all our schools. I hope so, because I know that when a child has mastered the technique that allows him to relax and energize his body, when he can be a bear asleep or a fairy twirling on his toes—he has a mind free as his body and a freed mind can be taught anything one wants to take the trouble to teach it.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

There is no moral to this story. Or if there is I do not know what it is or where it is. So here goes.

Years ago Joe Norton and the hope of the Pilgrims worked for the same rich man. A nice, art-loving, clean-minded, altogether admirable rich man. Having always been rich it may be, perhaps, that he did not quite appreciate the struggle of those who have always been poor. One of the old-timers in the office had a pension desk. The office manager had kept him on in recognition of his years of slavish fidelity. One day the rich man caught the pensioner asleep at his desk.

"Fire him," curtly ordered the rich man. "Get rid of him. I cannot have such a person around."

Have I said that Joe Norton was the office manager? He resented that order furiously. He knew the injustice of it. He knew that poor old What-Not might die in the streets, for he had never saved a penny of his meager salary. He had had an invalid sister to support. He cursed the nice, art-loving, clean-minded rich man under his breath, but he did not dare tell him the truth to his face. Yet if he had given his employer to understand the cruelty poor old What-Not might have been saved.

"I'll take warning by old What-Not," Joe swore, vigorously. "I'll be no man's Old Dog Tray. I'll look out for myself, so that when my working years are over I'll not need a pension."

Oh, yes, he saved a little money. But he gave his whole life to his employer's business with such a furious energy that it did not occur to him to make a real provision for his own future. Not long ago he broke down. The new office manager fired him yesterday.

I said there is no moral in this story.

GENEVA, Aug. 1. — A fresh world-wide movement for the amalgamation of industrial unions into strong national organizations is now under way, according to the latest reports to the international Labor Bureau from leading countries of the world.

In the United States this grouping tendency is finding expression in the efforts of the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' union to wardens bringing together all organized workers in the clothing industry. The total membership of the organizations concerned is estimated at 400,000, and it is hoped to weld them all into one gigantic national organization.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers have already adhered to the new project and other unions are expected to give their adhesion shortly. As yet it has not been decided whether the big combined organization would take the form of complete fusion or merely of federation of the various organizations.

In Norway the Christiania trades congress has adopted an entirely new plan for the reorganization and grouping of trade unions. These are all to be grouped according to the industry and the local councils of trade unions, which include both the existing local trade union and the shop councils, are to have greatly increased powers.

In accordance with this general decision, all the unions in the building workers' trades, such as masons, brick layers, carpenters, painters, woodworkers, etc., have asked the Federation of Trade Unions to draw up a scheme for a building union to include all organizations connected with this industry.

In Italy several new national organizations are being formed. One of these, called the Corporazione Nazionale dell'Impiego (National Corporation of Salaried Employees) has just been created and is divided into five sections: civil servants, employees in charitable and public relief institutions, bank employees, insurance employees, and commercial employees.

The organization already has 100,000 members. It aims at giving due regard to individual ability by combating the excesses of the principle of productive equality, by helping the more energetic, intelligent and cultivated elements and by collaborating with the managements of public administrations and businesses to increase the efficiency of methods of work.

The national conference of the managing committees of the Federation of Trade Unions of Czechoslovakia has also adopted a resolution advocating the amalgamation of federations in kindred industries.

As a result of this resolution one such amalgamation has already been formed, the Federation of Bohemian Watermen, the Prague Union of Sailors and the Sailors of Bratislava having combined into the single organization of the Federation of Czechoslovakia Watermen and Sailors.

The same tendency is also being manifested in nearly all of the industrial countries.

The result of this, either for good or for evil, according to the International Labor Bureau, will be a vast increase in strength of organized labor. With all of the various unions combined in the same line of industry, comprising into a single organization a decree of power will be exercised not only in the matter of strikes, but in all matters of policy that will greatly exceed that of the present single national unions.

"Why should I boost your salary any more? I'm paying you a thousand a week now."

The danseuse executed a pirouette.

"See that step?"

"I see that step," returned the manager.

"I've invented that step," insisted the dancer.

"I know you did, cutie," snorted the manager, shifting his cigar from left to right. "You invented that step and a lot more. But lemme tell you somepin you need to know."

"What is that?" she asked.

"You didn't invent dancing."

EXHIBITION OF NEW ART AT LIBRARY

Twenty-one Canvases to Be Hung in the Juvenile Room, Monday

CALIFORNIA ARTISTS

Mrs. Julia Nichols Steelman to Speak on Their Production

Next Sunday afternoon the regular meeting of the Glendale Art association will be held in the juvenile room of the city library at 4 o'clock, with Miss Annie McIntyre, vice-president, presiding, in the absence of Mrs. Roy Ballagh. On Monday of the present week a new exhibit of 21 canvases, the work of Southern California artists, was hung in the juvenile room. At the Sunday meeting Mrs. Julia Nichols Steelman of this city, a painter and art collector, will be the speaker, her theme being, "California Artists." The canvases upon the walls will be used to illustrate the points she will make. The exhibit includes pictures by the following local artists: Walter Cheever, Mrs. F. J. Lane, John Cotton, Mrs. A. B. Phillips, Mrs. Johanna Armstrong and Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president of the association. Other artists represented by their work are: Benjamin C. Brown, Greenville Redmond, W. J. Judson of Pasadena, M. M. Cuprien of Laguna, Anna A. Hall of Laguna, H. Puthoff of Eagle Rock and four artists from Tuleburg—Mrs. Laura Sweet, Harriet Berry, Carl Krauth and Anna Helga.

The canvases are said to be of unusual merit and interest and the public is invited to visit the library and inspect the pictures at their leisure. L. T. Rowley, whose telephone number of Glendale 1023, has been made chairman of the committee of arrangements for the picnic which the association is to have Saturday, August 25, at Laguna, where Mrs. Ballagh will spend the month of August as a member of the artist colony there, resting and painting. Under the present plan, association members will leave Glendale at 7 a. m. on August 25 and be transported to Laguna in autos, for which Mr. Rowley will make arrangements. Those wishing to remain for the week-end can arrange to do so by communicating the week before with Mrs. Roy Ballagh, addressing her at Laguna. She will undertake to secure reservations for them in the tent city.

BEARS ARE PLENTIFUL
TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 1.—(United Press) With their fear of human beings growing less all the time, bears in Rainier National park are learning that tourists can be trusted, and are fast getting acquainted. More than a dozen bears are now making regular daily trips between Longmire Springs and Paradise, since rangers commenced feeding them, and for the first time in the park's history the animals are eating from the hands of their two-legged friends. One motherly old creature, dubbed "Avalanche Lily," is a daily visitor at Paradise Camp. Recently she was absent for a time, later appearing with two frisky cubs tagging at her heels. When the cubs ran from camp tourists, "Avalanche Lily" administered a severe chastisement for their unfriendly conduct.

NOBLESSE OBLIGE

No matter how the road may wind and how the storm is blowing,
No matter how the clouds may hang and all the day be drear,
No matter how the night be dark, still I shall keep on going,
And through the darkness till the dawn with rosy light appear.
The load be heavy on my back, and arms and legs be weary,
The storm be blowing in my face, still shall I struggle through
The wind and rain and storm and dark and on the way that's dreary,
Yes, I shall strive and struggle, for what else is there to do?

No matter if no light appear to guide me and to cheer me;
No matter if the blinding storm shall beat me in its wrath,
No matter if there is no friend or dear companion near me,
If winds shall blow in fury and shall sweep me from my path,
Still shall I seek to find the road through every wind that's blowing,
Still shall I strive and falter not till all the storm is through,
Still shall I lift my load again and rise and keep on going,
Still shall I strive and hope and dream—there's nothing else to do.

So, Boy of Mine, what storms may come and what the ills may flout me
And what the winds may beat on thee and how the rain may pour,
And what the clouds and darknesses may gather all about thee,
And how the beacon lights be dark and how the storms may roar,
This is the duty of a man, what terrors he is knowing,
How dark may be the starless night, nor beacon shining through,
To seek the road and fight the fight and keep on going, going,
To be a man and struggle, for what else is there to do?

VANILLA EXTRACT IS HIS ROAD TO GLORY IN RING
BEND, Oregon, July 31 (United Press)—"Jack Dempsey" sat in a cell in the local jail and told of his strenuous 15 rounds with Tommy Gibbons, in Shelby. "You know, I sort of wish Gibbons had put me away," "Dempsey" confided. "After a certain amount of fighting a fellow gets tired of it. I'm not going to quit though. I'll keep on fighting until a better man shows up. I think there's more honor in being knocked out than in retiring and refusing to fight." Police Chief Peter Hanson diagnosed "Dempsey's" condition as an overdose of vanilla extract.

FIRPO SUSPICIOUS, WANTS TO FIGHT IN S. A.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, August 1.—(United Press). Some doubts about what the results of another "mixed bout" would be have brooked a Dempsey-Willard heavyweight championship bout for two years. Considering, as political bodies always do, what effect such a match would have on the political parties the New York boxing commission through a Republican and Democratic administration has carefully refrained from giving the slightest indication of its attitude on mixed bouts for the heavyweight championship.

Up until recently the perplexing color angle has been confined to the black and white races, but a new color has been injected now with the complaint of some Spanish language papers in New York that Luis Angel Firpo, the South American giant, is being discriminated against on account of his color.

Evidence to prove their point was taken from the recent Firpo-Willard fight in the fifth round of which the huge crowd in the Rickard arena arose to its feet and shouted in real college style—Come on, Jess, come on!

As his fellow countrymen construed this to be an act of hostility against the big Latin, so also did Firpo interpret it as being an indication that he might not get a square deal in a match with Jack Dempsey in this country.

For this reason Firpo insisted that the match be staged in Buenos Aires, when Rickard and Jack Kearns were trying to make the match with him.

Firpo is too willing to be advised and he is too suspicious. His advice is not always of the best and his doubts about the sportsmanship of fans in this country are absolutely without foundation.

Some wise old follower of fistiana could have told him that crowds practically always lean toward the "under dog" and it could have been explained that the shouts for Willard to "Come on" were inspired more by a loser making a rally than by a spirit of animosity toward a "brown man."

In insisting that the bout be staged in South America, Firpo was losing sight of the fact that the champion would be in much more unfavorable surrounding there than Firpo would ever be in this country.

The South American champion apparently is under the impression that Dempsey is a great national hero and that the crowd would call out troops if Firpo started to win from him.

It would have done Firpo some good and would have given him a better understanding of the sportsmanship of fans in the United States if he had heard the ovation that Georges Carpentier drew in Jersey City and the demonstration that was staged in Shelby when Tom Gibbons was introduced from the ringside.

Dempsey, largely because the public does not and has not tried to understand or know him, is perhaps the most unpopular heavyweight champion that has ever held the title and if Firpo and Dempsey should meet it is very likely that Firpo would get the better hand and that in a pinch the crowd would be up yelling—"Come on, Firpo, come on!"

POISON GAS TO KILL OFF BUGS

[By Associated Press]
HAVRE, Mont., Aug. 1.—Poison gas, such as was used on the battlefields of France in the late world war, may be released over the grain fields of northern Montana to kill the grasshoppers which have taken a toll of many thousands of dollars worth of grain yearly for the last several years. It was stated here.

The most common method of combatting the insect pest in the past has been to leave exposed grain or sawdust mixed with poison. One chicken grower has been reported to have perfected a machine which, when driven over a field, collected the grasshoppers in sacks, after which the insects were drowned and then left to dry. The grasshoppers were served as chicken food during the winter.

The possibility of using poison gas to eradicate the pest is being investigated by local officials, who hope that it may also kill gophers.

Don't wait until tomorrow to neglect the things you should neglect today.

GLADYS WALTON IN 'SAWDUST' AT GATEWAY

When a small town decorates itself for a holiday it does it with entire abandon. And circus day is one of the biggest holidays of the year to the folks who live in or near a small town.

Such an occasion is portrayed realistically in "Sawdust," the Universal attraction of the Big Top, starring Gladys Walton, which will be shown at the Gateway theater, opening today. Circus day in a small Virginia town, embracing everything that goes to make up a true picture of a village under the magic spell of the big top is shown in the play.

Miss Walton has the role of Nita, the tight-rope walker, around whom the threads of the story are woven, and the part affords her an opportunity to display her athletic skill as well as her dramatic ability. The picture presents her in her strongest role, perhaps, since her appearance in "Pink Tights," another story of circus life in which she scored a tremendous hit.

"Sawdust" was written by Courtney Riley Cooper and adapted to the screen by Harvey Gates. Mr. Cooper has been long associated with one of the biggest circuses in the country and has put much of the spirit and atmosphere of the life with which he is so familiar into the story.

The picture retains the flavor of the original story and has a deep sympathetic appeal. It was produced under the direction of Jack Conway.

Mine Congress to Ask for More Foreign Labor

[By Associated Press]
MILWAUKEE, Aug. 1.—Fewer restrictions on immigration to meet an alleged need of additional laborers in the mining industry will be discussed by the American Mining Congress to meet here September 24-29. Nearly 3000 owners, operators and mining engineers are expected to be in attendance.

Although mining men appreciate the unwisdom of breaking down the immigration barriers entirely, they feel there should be no abridgment of opportunity in the United States for effective labor and for selecting the right type of immigrant, according to officials of the organization.

A national movement for industrial co-operation between employer and employee in mining enterprises also is to be launched here. Ways and means of assisting employees in maintaining proper standards of living also will be discussed.

The United States bureau of mines and the geological survey will participate in the exposition, and the mining states of California, Colorado and Utah will exhibit displays of their mine resources and equipment.

Additional emphasis will be placed on the use of labor saving machinery and equipment in mining enterprises. The American Mining Congress officials say, has been advocating modernization of the mining industry and the standardization of basic methods for the last three years.

BUSY BASEBALL SCHEDULE NOW ON HI ROUTE

Members of the Standard Oil baseball team which has been participating in the ball game schedule which is being played out on the high school field under Community Service, are getting very absent minded. Last night they failed to show up and so forfeited a game to the First Methodist church team.

Tonight the Newton Electric team plays the Christian church boys.

Thursday evening American Legion twirlers are to play the city team.

Friday the Night School team plays the Post Office boys.

This will complete the schedule which began June 4 and has covered two months. Nine teams have stayed with it, the only one to drop out being that of the fire ladders who did not have enough men to draw upon. Each team has averaged a game a week.

The championship, which is expected to lie between the city team and night school players, will be determined next week, the team winning two games out of three being awarded the banner.

A new schedule of games will start next week and it is expected that all the teams that have been playing will again enroll. Their captains or business managers are asked to communicate with Director Ernest Tucker of Community Service at the chamber of commerce, and the same request is being made of new teams or individual players that wish to participate.

Mr. Tucker is much pleased with the response to this part of the Community Service program of activities and predicts that the next series of games will be of even greater interest.
